Mt Kilimanjaro is the largest freestanding mountain in the world. With no supporting range, Kilimanjaro bulges from the Serengeti to a height of 5,895 metres and provides a stunning trek to its summit.

Our expedition takes us up the Machame route. This is the most popular route on the mountain. The scenery is spectacular and the itinerary gives trekkers the best chance of reaching the summit.

THE KILIMANJARO EXPERIENCE

Mt Kilimanjaro is the largest freestanding mountain in the world. With no supporting range, Kilimanjaro bulges from the Serengeti to a height of 5,895 metres and provides a stunning trek to its summit.

As you meander along the Machame route, your senses will be stunned by the lush, fertile, mountain rainforest of the Kilimanjaro National Park. As the route heads toward the Shira Plateau, trees gradually disappear and are replaced by colourful alpine vegetation which provides a stunning backdrop for our ascent of the mountain.

Soon the incredible volcanic rock feature known as Lava Tower becomes visible, before we drop down and circle around the South Icefield. The next stop is Barafu Hut. As you follow the path around the mountain, fantastic alpine views and stunning vistas will delight even the most discerning photographer. The long journey to the summit takes us past Stella Point, and then up to the famous Uhuru Peak – the highest point on the African Continent. Here you can relax, congratulate yourself on your achievement, and enjoy the elation that comes from feeling you're on top of the world!

Once you've had time to enjoy your summit achievement, it's a much more gentle two day walk back down to Mweka Gate and the hustle and bustle of Moshi – plus a welcome change of clothes and a hot shower!

THE MOUNTAIN

Mt Kilimanjaro is a dormant volcano in Tanzania which rises 5,895m above the Serengeti Plains. First summited by Hans Meyer and Ludwig Purtscheller in 1889, it's now a major drawcard for mountaineers from all over the world.

Panoramic views across Northern Tanzania and Southern Kenya greet those lucky enough to summit its highest point – Uhuru Peak.
